

We have a certain way of doing things. Hopefully you do too.

IKEA is a home furnishing company with Swedish origin that offers well-designed, functional home furnishing products at prices so low that as many as possible can afford them.

At IKEA you'll be a part of a global family of colleagues who share an uncommon corporate value – to contribute to create a better everyday life for the many people. You'll also find a casual but focused working environment where things get done.

Now we are looking for a Recruitment Specialist.

If

- you have experience recruitment, development and performance evaluation,
- you have experience in leading projects and processes,
- you have excellent interpersonal skills and you are able to build working relationships,
- you have an interest in home furnishings and people's everyday life at home,
- you are self-motivated and take initiative when working towards set objectives,
- you are structured, flexible and able to deal with tight deadlines,
- you can prioritise and organise your work and the work of others to make the most efficient use of time available,
- you are good at creating an open environment by encouraging constructive, honest, two-way feedback and discussions,
- you are a good communicator both verbally and in writing,
- you have excellent English knowledge,
- you are computer literate, and if you recognize your own worth but see it in others too, if your enthusiasm radiates to your colleagues and you lead with your own example, if you believe that sharing your ideas is best for better and new ways of doing things, we would like to hear from you.

Join the IKEA family and apply for the position online by 8 April 2012 in English language.

Click on the button to submit your application

